In the quiet life of our parish the little buzz that we had last week is now past. On Tuesday, the first of March, Sr. Janice Farnham, RJM, gave a very interesting talk about the nuns who first came to New England in the middle of the nineteenth century. The Mercies were the first group to come to Rhode Island, arriving in Providence in the 1850s. I am not sure when they came north to St. Charles to staff our parish school. Certainly they were here by the 1870s. These women often met hatred from the Protestant population who resented the coming of Catholics to their Protestant cities. You may remember that a convent in Charlestown, MA, was burnt to the ground. But the sisters were not scared away. They stayed and taught and taught. The result was that Catholics, in two or three generations, became successful in the larger society, culminating in the election of John F. Kennedy as president in 1960. But success does not always mean fidelity to one's religious roots. That is what we see today. Only God knows what we as a church here in the USA will be like in the future. However, one thing is clear. We will not be predominantly an Irish or French or Italian or Polish church. We will be predominantly a Latino church. We have our first pope from South America. Both our church and our country will be more southern in its mores and complexion. So a new day. We from the northern countries must make room for our sisters and brothers from the south. Did you know that a small group of Brazilian Catholics celebrate Mass in our church on Sundays at noon? So the new wave has already hit the shore of our old Irish parish.

Fr. Finnegan, S.J.

CAUGHT AND SHAMED

In the Gospel Reading, the scribes and Pharisees bring to Jesus a woman caught in adultery. They make her stand in the middle of the crowd, and they announce that she was caught in the very act of adultery.

The law of Moses prescribes stoning as the punishment for adultery. But it does not permit your doing anything you want to a person caught in adultery. It is clear, however, that the scribes and Pharisees are using this woman just as bait to catch Jesus, and they have no hesitation about shaming her terribly in the process.

Maybe that is one of the reasons Jesus looks down at the ground to write in the dirt. If he is looking down and she is standing up, then he isn't looking at her. And so he is protecting her in her shame by helping her be hidden from him, alone of all those men staring at her. In caring for her in this way, Jesus is doing something to protect her from the injustice of her captors.

And here's another thing to see. If this woman was caught in the very act of adultery, as her captors say, then there had to have been a man with her when she was caught. Where is he? Why isn't he here with her? Did the scribes and Pharisees just let him go? The law of Moses prescribes stoning him too.

The scribes and Pharisees are hypocritical, then; and Jesus catches them in it. He makes clear that they don't care enough about the law of Moses to keep it themselves. They melt away when Jesus tells them to let the ones without sin be the first to cast stones.

By that move, Jesus diminishes the woman's shame considerably, doesn't he? Only when it is clear that her accusers have been caught in their hypocrisy and shamed by it, does Jesus lift up his eyes and look at her.

And so, by his justice for her and his mercy, Jesus catches her for the Lord. Of all those who came to Jesus because of her, she is the only one left standing by him at the end of the story. And she is the only one who calls him "Kyrie" ("Lord," "Sir").
